Equality.

BY

EDWARD BELLAMY,

Author of "Looking Backward," "Dr. Heidenhoff's Process," etc.
12mo, cloth, $1.25.

AFTER years of preparation Mr. Bellamy now puts forward a work which will command universal attention. The new book is larger and more comprehensive than "Looking Backward." The scene is the same—that is to say, the world of the twentieth century—and the same characters reappear. But while the new book tells us much that is fresh about the institutions of the world of to-morrow, its especial purpose, as distinguished from that of "Looking Backward," is to account for these institutions by explaining not only a righteousness and reason, but likewise the course of historical evolution by which they were born out of the very different order of things existing to-day. In this part of his work the author has much to say of the meaning of the events of our own times, which he links with the future by predictions of changes now close upon us.

NOTES IN SEASON.

HARPER & BROTHERS will publish on the 1st of July Du Maurier's "The Martian."

JAMES POTT & CO. will publish early in July the fifth and concluding volume of Dixon's "Church History."

PETER PAUL BOOK CO., Buffalo, N. Y., will publish shortly "The Chatelaine," experiences of travel, by G. E. X.

G. P. PUTNAM'S SONS have just ready a volume entitled "Evolution and Religion, or faith as a part of a complete cosmic system," by Prof. John Bascom; and "Selections from the Poems of Timothy Otis Paine."

L. C. PAGE & COMPANY, Boston, will publish at once "The Court of the Tuileries," by Catherine Charlotte, Lady Jackson. It will be issued in two volumes, and will complete the edition, in fourteen volumes, of Lady Jackson's works, the former volumes of which this house has issued from time to time.

THE NEW AMSTERDAM BOOK CO. will publish shortly an exhaustive work, in two large volumes, entitled "The Secret Societies of All Ages and Countries," by C. W. Heckethorn. This work is the result of twenty years' study and research. It contains accounts of 160 secret organizations, extending from the Egyptian mysteries to the latest doings of the Nihilists.

D. APPLETON & CO. will publish at once Edward Bellamy's new romance of the future, entitled "Equality." It is of interest to recall that over 400,000 copies of "Looking Backward" have been sold in this country. The book has been translated into the language of almost every civilized country, and its total sale is almost beyond computation. Quite recently the demand for literature dealing with sociological questions has led to the printing of a quarter of a million at a low price in England. "His Majesty's Greatest Subject," a dramatic romance of India, by S. S. Thorburn, is also to be published shortly by D. Appleton & Company.

CHARLES SCRIBNER'S SONS have just ready "Arnaud's Masterpiece," a romance of the Pyrenees, by Walter Crane Larned, telling the poetic story of a young, enthusiastic artist who learned to paint from an old monk of exalted ideals, and whose masterpiece, a picture of the Madonna, influenced his entire life; and "The Old Gentleman of the Black Stock," a new story of the South, by Thomas Nelson Page. A volume of "Later Gleanings," a new series of Gladstone's "Gleanings of Past Years," is also just issued, containing essays published in many magazines on theological and ecclesiastical subjects. "A Concordance to the Greek Testament," according to the texts of Westcott, Tischendorf, and the English Revisers, edited by Rev. W. F. Moulton and Rev. A. T. Geden, is a publication of which any house may be justly proud. It bears the imprint of the Scribners in this country.

MACMILLAN & CO. have in preparation a "Dictionary of Architecture," to be published in three large octavo volumes, under the direction of Russell Sturgis, author of "European Architecture," etc. The work will include special articles by many of the leading architects, sculptors, engineers, mural painters, and other men having practical knowledge of the arts about which they write. Biography is part of the scheme, and one may expect to find definitions of terms, history and criticism of styles, together with some account of building as an art, materials and their employment, construction (practical and scientific), modern appliances to meet novel requirements, modern and ancient practice in the application of painting and sculpture to buildings, landscape gardening in connection with architecture, etc., etc. The volumes will be abundantly illustrated. They announce for early publication an edition in six volumes (a book to each), of Spenser's "Faerie Queene," edited with introduction and glossary by K. M. Warren, and "The Observations of a Foster Parent," in respect to many problems of education.

"The plot is slight," it says, "Louis de Laval, the hero, who tells his own tale, is an émigré whose ardent love for his country overcomes his inherited hatred of the usurper. He returns to France, and takes service under the emperor, but much happens to him before his fortune is established. "Facial diagnosis is the ability to determine the physical status of a person from external appearances. By its use it is possible to discover accurately the amount and location of matter in the body foreign to its normal condition, and by recognizing incipient tendencies to special phases of disorder, not only to warn the patient of the danger impending, but to summarily counteract the same by natural and unfailing means. This method of diagnosis is really an auxiliary of the great natural science of healing by water."—Introduction.

In opening Mr. Larned dwells upon books generally, their function and value; next he speaks of the relative value of books, indicates some principles in choosing them, and marks out some lines for reading. These lines include poetry, general literature, history, biography, and romance. Leading and valuable works are mentioned.

Larned, Walter Cranston. Arnaud's masterpiece: a romance of the Pyrenees. N. Y., C: Scribner's Sons, 1897. c. 5+213 p. S. cl., $1.25. [1946

In this mediæval romance of southern France Mr. Larned has pictured the struggle of a young painter to escape from the influence of purely sensuous beauty and to learn the secret of the spiritual side of his art. These opposing influences are typified by two maidens, each of whom inspires in the hero a different passion for beauty.

"The present is a complete concordance to the text of the Greek Testament, as set forth in the latest and best critical editions. A somewhat different principle, therefore, has been adopted and carried out than in earlier works of this class. The Greek text of Drs. Westcott and Hort, published at Cambridge and London, 1881, has been assumed as the standard, and with this have been compared the texts of the eighth edition of Tischendorf, and of the English revisers. Marginal readings also have in all cases been included. Accordingly no word or phrase which finds a place in any one of these three editions is excluded from the Concordance."—Preface.

AMERICAN BOOK-TRADE BIBLIOGRAPHY. II.*

ROORBACH'S "BIBLIOTHECA AMERICANA," AND THE BEGINNING OF BOOK-TRADE JOURNALISM.

INSPIRED by his employer, young Orville A. Roorbach, (who had apprenticed himself to Evert Duyckinck in 1821,) soon after he began his career as a bookseller devoted himself to making a catalogue of all books in the American market of which he could obtain the titles. At first his bibliographical memoranda were printed as manuscript for the use of his customers in New York, Boston, Philadelphia, and the southern cities. After he removed to Charleston, S. C., where his store, "At the Sign of the Red Bible," became a famous resort for the literary people of that time, Roorbach, realizing the need of a comprehensive trade catalogue, began systematically to complete his record of American books, beginning with 1820. As the compiling and arranging was done exclusively by himself, and as his business demanded much of his time, Roorbach naturally did not make rapid progress.

Roorbach had given up his store in Charleston and had taken charge of the wholesale department of Wiley & Putnam, and then of that of George P. Putnam, before the first volume of his "Bibliotheca Americana—Catalogue of American Publications, including reprints and original works, from 1820 to 1848 inclusive," was published in 1849 with the imprint, "New York: Orville A. Roorbach. For sale by G. P. Putnam."[9] In 1850 Mr. Putnam published the first Supplement, which contained 2000 more titles than the original work, and a list of periodicals.[10] In October, 1852, Roorbach, who was then a jobber of books, at 12 Vesey Street, New York, published in one volume the original work of 1849 and the supplement of 1850, to which he added the titles of books issued during the intervening two years, making in all a record of 24,000 books.[11] In May, 1855, his son, O. A. Roorbach, Jr., who had been nolens volens pressed into the service for his father's hobby, published a Supplement including works published from October, 1852, to May, 1855, and also "a repetition of such books as have either changed prices or publishers during that period."[12] In March, 1858, Wiley & Halstead, who were then Roorbach's backers, published an Addenda to the "Bibliotheca Americana," covering the period from May, 1855, to March, 1858.[13] In 1861, the year in which Roorbach died, his son published "Volume IV. of the Bibliotheca Americana . . . from March, 1858, to January, 1861."[14] This last part has become exceedingly scarce owing to the fact that most of the sheets were sent by mistake to the paper-mill and were there destroyed before the error was discovered. Roorbach's work bristles with surprising errors and no less surprising omissions, besides following the bad precedent of the "London Catalogue" in omitting the dates of publication, save in a few cases. But it would, perhaps, have been too much to expect a first attempt to be more complete or perfect than Roorbach's. On almost every page the lack of knowledge of the subject is painfully apparent, and that accounts for many of the shortcomings of the work.

Roorbach's labors were supplemented by Charles B. Norton, who published the first num-

In July, 1856, Mr. Norton resigned his position as editor of the Publishers' Circular and was succeeded by Charles Rudolph Rode, who since November, 1855, had published and edited the weekly Criterion, one of the ablest critical journals of that time. With the issue for July 10, 1858, the names of the Temporary Committee were dropped from the heading, and the following notice was substituted: "Conducted under the direction of the Association by Charles R. Rode." As a matter of fact, Mr. Rode from the start relieved the Book Trade Association of all financial responsibility in conducting the Publishers' Circular, assuming all risks himself in exchange for the patronage of the Association. In the issue for June 22, 1861, Mr. Rode made the following announcement: "After the next number of this Journal, and until the revival of the Book Trade, we shall issue but one edition per month. The entire absorption of public interest by current events has caused a nearly complete cessation in the demand for new books, and publishers have in consequence discontinued their usual issue. As our principal purpose is to inform the general trade of the operations of the publishing and literary world, it has seemed advisable to adopt this course, both from apparent and economical reasons. The next number, after that of the 29th June, will be published on the 15th of July."

Continued as:

19 American Publishers' Circular and Literary Gazette. Conducted by Charles R. Rode, 39 Walker Street, New York. New series. Vol. I. 6 numbers, January 15, 1863 to April 1, 1863. 4°.

In the issue of April 1, 1863, Mr. Rode announced that he had transferred The Publishers' Circular to G. W. Childs, of Philadelphia, who continued it as:

20 The Publishers' Circular and Literary Gazette. Octavo series. Issued on the 1st and 15th of each Month, at $2.00 per Annum in Advance. Vol. I., May 1, 1863 to Vol. XVIII., no. 6, January 15, 1872. 8°.

On January 24, 1872, Frederick Leypoldt purchased from George W. Childs the rights in The Publishers' Circular and merged it into his Weekly Trade Circular under the following title:

21 The Publishers' and Stationers' Weekly Trade Circular. A Journal devoted to the interests of the Publishing, Printing, Book, Stationery, News, Music, Art, and Fancy Trades, and Associated Branches. With which is incorporated the American Literary Gazette and Publishers' Circular, Established in the year 1852. Official Organ of the Publishers' Board of Trade. F. Leypoldt, Editor and Publisher, 712 Broadway, New York. New series. Vol. I. beginning with No. 2, dated Thursday, January 25, 1872. 8°.

Beginning with the issue for January 2, 1873, which also initiated Vol. III., the title of the Trade Circular was changed as follows:

22 The Publishers' Weekly, [Formerly the Trade Circular,] with which is incorporated the American Literary Gazette and Publishers' Circular. Established in the year 1852. Official Organ of the Publishers' Board of Trade. F. Leypoldt, Editor and Publisher, 712 Broadway, New York. 8°.

Beginning with the issue for February 22, 1873, The Publishers' Weekly was published on Saturdays instead of on Thursdays as before. With the issue of February 21, 1874, The Publishers' Weekly changed the line in its heading to read "Official Organ of the Publishers' Board of Trade and the American Book Trade Union."

Beginning with vol. VI., July 4, 1874, the title of the Weekly was changed to read:

23 The Publishers' Weekly. A Journal specially devoted to the interests of the Book and Stationery Trade. With which is incorporated the American Literary Gazette, etc. F. Leypoldt, Editor and Publisher, 37 Park Row, New York. 8°.

With the issue of July 22, 1876, the line "Official Organ of the Publishers' Board of Trade and the Am. Book Trade Association" was omitted from the heading of The Publishers' Weekly. And, finally, beginning with the issue for January 6, 1877, vol. XI., No. 1, the title of the Weekly became:

24 The Publishers' Weekly. The American Book Trade Journal. With which is incorporated the American Literary Gazette and Publishers' Circular. [Established 1852.] F. Leypoldt, Editor and Publisher, 37 Park Row, New York. 8°.

With the issue for January 5, 1879, beginning Vol. XV., R. R. Bowker became the proprietor of THE PUBLISHERS' WEEKLY, and the imprint became "Publication Office, 37 Park Row, New York." On the editorial page appeared the names: F. LEYPOLDT, Bibliographical Editor. R. R. BOWKER, General Editor. With the issue of July 5, 1880, and continuing until the issue of March 29, 1884, Mr. Leypoldt's name again appeared on the title-page as "Editor and Publisher," Mr. Leypoldt having leased the WEEKLY from Mr. Bowker when the latter went abroad to represent Harper & Brothers in England. Upon Mr. Leypoldt's death on March 29, 1884, Mr. Bowker resumed control of THE PUBLISHERS' WEEKLY, and the imprint again became "Publication Office" and the street address.

The Weekly Trade Circular was established at the suggestion of Mr. Leypoldt, by Leypoldt & Holt, 451 Broome Street, New York, in December, 1868, as 25 Literary Bulletin, A Monthly Record of Current Literature. 8°.

In September, 1869, the title was changed to 26 The Trade Circular and Literary Bulletin. A Special Medium of Inter-Communication for Publishers, Booksellers, and Stationers. Sent to the Trade only.

Beginning with Vol. III., No. 1, September, 1870, the title of The Trade Circular was changed to

THE WATERMAN FOUNTAIN-PEN SUIT.

THE suit brought by the L. E. Waterman Co. against Brentano's and R. H. Macy & Co., for alleged breach of contract and conspiracy to injure their business, was opened on June 4, in the Supreme Court, where a hearing was had before Judge Truax upon a motion asking for a provisional injunction against the defendants. The main facts in the case have already been stated in the WEEKLY, but at this hearing both sides of the matter were presented in more detail than heretofore. Walter S. Logan, of Logan, Desmond & Harly, appeared as counsel for the plaintiff, and in his argument rehearsed the claims upon which the suit is based. These are, briefly, that the contract existing between the Waterman Co. and Brentano's, binding the latter not to sell Waterman pens on other terms than those specified, "is valid and will be enforced by the courts, unless it is void as in illegal restraint of trade." That it is not in illegal restraint of trade because a patentee has a right to regulate the price of his patented goods. That to permit the sale of these patented goods at a price lower than that made by all regular agents would result in a general refusal of regular agents to handle the goods and would "cheapen and belittle" the goods themselves. The charges of fraud and conspiracy are based on the claim that the selling of the pens to an unauthorized buyer was conspiracy to avoid a contract and a fraud upon the company with which the contract was made, while the purchaser of the goods by deliberately inducing the breaking of a contract was aiding and abetting in a fraud.

Brentano's side of the case was made public at the hearing in two affidavits, one by Simon Brentano, stating that the sale was unauthorized and made without the knowledge of the firm, that notice of these facts were sent at once to R. H. Macy & Co., requesting the return of the pens, that no reply was made to this, and that Mr. Oppenheimer, of Brentano's, was sent to call on Mr. Isidor Straus, of Macy's, and arrange with him for the return of the pens. Mr. Oppenheimer's affidavit supplements and continues Mr. Brentano's. He states that he called at Macy's and was unable to see Isidor Straus, but had an interview with his son Jesse, from whom he demanded a return of the pens, explaining the manner of their sale, that Mr. Straus replied that the matter had been placed in his hands for settlement, that he would not return the pens, as he could not break faith with his customers, having advertised a sale of the goods, and that he would not under any circumstances return the pens. This determination was, it is alleged, repeated by Isidor Straus, in a later interview.

Macy's statement, consisting of affidavits of Nathan Straus, Jesse I. Straus, E. Lillian Kinnear, and William Sisseron, were submitted in opposition by their counsel, Daniel H. Greenleaf. These affidavits state, in effect, that R. H. Macy & Co. had refused to purchase pens of the Waterman Company under the agreement demanded as to selling, that as there was a demand for the goods, they instructed their buyers to buy the goods in the open market, even at full list prices; that all pens thus purchased were acquired lawfully and unrestrictedly, without urging or solicitation; that they bore full and lawful title to them and are entitled to sell them at any price or give them away, if they choose. Mr. Thompson, in an accompanying brief, claims that the sale of a patented article, when unconditional, gives to the purchaser the unrestricted right to use and sell, nor is he bound by any previous covenants between the persons from whom he purchases and third parties, of which he has no notice at the time of sale.

Opinion on the case has not yet been rendered, but without waiting for this decision the Waterman Co., through Mr. Logan, on June 7 filed a bill of complaint against R. H. Macy & Co. in the U. S. Circuit Court for infringement of patent rights in using and selling Waterman pens and penholders without a license.

COPYRIGHT AND TRADE-MARK INFRINGEMENT SUIT.

JOSEPH A. MARSH, of New York City, has begun suit in the United States Court at Detroit, Mich., against Beecher, Peck & Lewis, of the same place, asking for an accounting and an injunction against them for infringements of copyrights and trade-marks on a line of practice-books, drawing-books, etc., manufactured for the trade and sold by The Detroit News Company. It is claimed in this action that these books are largely used in the public and parochial schools of Detroit, that the defendants, Beecher, Peck & Lewis, have persistently imitated the entire series so closely that they are with difficulty distinguished from the publications of The Detroit News Company, and that they had been notified of the infringement. But as they continued in the face of warnings to make and sell the alleged imitations, suit has finally been brought against them to restrain them.

It will be prudent for dealers to bear in mind this suit and to be careful about purchasing the alleged infringing publications. Under the law the user of an infringement is as liable as the manufacturer.

TO STOP SONG PIRACY.

MUSIC publishers in New York and Chicago are combining to prevent the flooding of the United States with unauthorized Canadian reprints of the latest copyrighted popular songs. The investigation of the American Music Publishers' Association has revealed that all of the most popular pieces have been counterfeited, despite the fact that they are copyrighted, and by unknown publishers are sold at from 2 cents to 5 cents per copy, though the original compositions sell at from 20 to 40 cents per copy. It is estimated by the publishers that fully 5,000,000 copies of songs were printed and sold in the month of May.

A committee composed of Isidore Witmark' T. B. Harms, and H. W. Gray, has been appointed to devise means with which to suppress the offenders.

The business, it seems, is worked in Canada in connection with newspapers which publish lists of music to be sold at 10 cents a copy. The Post-Office box given belongs to the newspaper, and it takes half of all the money sent as pay for the advertising, and the other half goes to the "pirate," who sends the music by mail.

If the Post-Office authorities stop such mail matter because it infringes the copyright law, it is returned to the publisher, after thirty days, under the law of the United States, and the only one who is out is the person who sends the 10 cents. The Canadian law is less lenient, as it provides for the destruction of contraband matter sent over the line by American violators of copyright law.

COPYRIGHT IN "THE AUTOCRAT OF THE BREAKFAST-TABLE."

THE Supreme Court will be asked to say whether or not Oliver Wendell Holmes had a copyright on his famous work, "The Autocrat of the Breakfast-Table." According to a decision by the Court of Appeals for the second circuit he had not, and the appeal of Oliver Wendell Holmes, Jr., ancillary executor of the will of his father, from that decision was docketed on the 12th inst. It will probably be heard at the next term of court. As such executor, Judge Holmes brought suit for an injunction to restrain George D. Hurst from publishing an edition of the book. Hurst defended on the ground that the author had never legally secured a copyright, and the court sustained him, dismissing the bill.

It was shown that the title was deposited in the Library of Congress November 2, 1858, and a copy of the book itself on November 22. Subsequent renewals were secured, extending the life of the copyright privilege until the year 1900. But it appeared that the work was published in parts, running through the Atlantic Monthly from October, 1857, to October, 1858, and that neither the magazine nor the separate parts were copyrighted. This, the court held, was a fatal defect, the law requiring that a copy must be deposited before publication. The contention that the whole book was something different from its parts, and therefore entitled to a copyright, notwithstanding the previous publication of the separate chapters, the Court said, was a refinement of distinction that the statute did not warrant.

POSTAL CONGRESS ENDED.

THE Universal Postal Congress, the fifth convention of its kind in the world, closed on the 15th inst. The next of the congresses, the sixth sextennial one, will be held in Rome, Italy, in February, 1903.

The deliberations of the final meeting were accompanied with much formality. Gen. George S. Batcheller, president of the Congress, called the body to order shortly before 11 o'clock, and after a few interchanges of remarks and appropriate speeches the documents were signed.

Following is a résumé of the results of the work of the Congress:

(1) The principal treaty which includes the entry of Corea into the postal union; the declaration of the Orange Free State (which failed to send a delegate to Washington) that it hoped soon to enter the union; and the declaration of the Chinese Empire (which was represented in the Congress), that it will observe the regulations of the union as soon as the organization of its service permits.

(2) The conditions in which the countries of the union will pay reciprocally the intermediary transit rates have been facilitated, and tariff diminished quite materially on a graduated scale for the ensuing six years.

(3) Uniform colors have been projected for postage stamps.

(4) Postal cards unpaid are subject to a double tax, that is, 4 cents in the place of the former tax, which was 10 cents, the same as for unpaid letters.

(5) Circulars produced on a machine (typewritten) in quantities of twenty circulars, all of the same character, are admitted to the international mails at the same rates as printed circulars.

(6) Samples of merchandise are admitted up to 350 grammes.

(7) Objects of natural history, animals, dried plants or preserved geological specimens are admitted as samples.

(8) The question of the creation of a universal postage stamp brought up and the proposition defeated on account of the difficulties which would occur in putting into practice that important innovation, especially because of the diversity of currency standards.

(9) Special arrangements concerning packages of declared value, postal orders, books of identity, and subscriptions to journals have been thoroughly revised. This country is not actually concerned in these arrangements, mostly affecting the states of the Continent of Europe.

The new treaty will become operative January 1, 1899.

HARPER & BROTHERS IN LONDON.

HARPER & BROTHERS on the 16th inst. acquired the business established in London by the late James R. Osgood, of Boston, and Clarence W. McIlvaine, of New York, under the firm-name of Osgood, McIlvaine & Co., 45 Albemarle Street. It will hereafter be conducted under the style of Harper & Brothers, who thereby come into the possession of several very valuable copyrights, including those of Thomas Hardy and of the late George du Maurier, as well as one of the best established and most popular of the younger publishing houses in England. Mr. McIlvaine will continue to conduct the business in London for the present as a vice-president of the corporation of Harper & Brothers.

DR. MURRAY'S SCRIPTORIUM.

I HAVE just spent a pleasant day with Dr. James Murray at Oxford, and I was taken over the "scriptorium," where he was working on the great new English dictionary to be made on historical principles. This "scriptorium" is a shed of galvanized iron, lined with shelves which are groaning with slips of paper on which are written words and millions of illustrative quotations, all roughly arranged for the master-hand by voluntary sub-editors. The "scriptorium" is lighted (at night) and heated by gas, so that the risk from fire is reduced to a minimum, and the last thing at night Dr. Murray or one of his family visits the building, which is situated in the lexicographer's back garden, to see that all is right. The contents are not insured, for the very good reason that they could not be replaced, but paper does not burn so easy as smoke may think, says a correspondent of the Chicago Record.

Twelve years have passed since Dr. Murray entered upon his colossal task, and yet the third volume—down to the end of the letter F—will not be ready before next midsummer; and this, notwithstanding the appointment of Mr. Henry Bradley as an assistant editor, and the retaining of a considerable paid staff. I do not suppose that such scholarly original work was ever placed before the public at such a ridiculously small price—less than a half-penny per page of large size. Oxford University has already sunk something like £50,000 in the work, which has, indeed, to some extent crippled the resources of the delegates of the press, and I do not suppose that there will ever be any return of consequence on the capital expended. Truly, as old Fuller, the quaint and wise, wrote: "Learning has profited most by those works on which the printers have lost."

A COMMERCIAL TRAVELLER NOT A LABORER IN OHIO.

BY a recent decision of the Circuit Court in Southern Ohio, a commercial traveller is not a laborer in the eyes of the law, and his wages are not a first lien on a defunct corporation. This places him in the category of professions, and should he leave his salary that he has earned by hard knocks during sixteen hours of day in the hands of his firm, and lose it through misplaced confidence, he has no one to blame but himself, for the law says he is the victim of misplaced confidence, and must come in as a common creditor in a settlement.

COMMUNICATIONS.

REPLY TO THE "WAIL FROM THE PACIFIC COAST."

1012 WALNUT ST., PHILADELPHIA, June 12, 1897.

To the Editor of The Publishers' Weekly.

DEAR SIR: The communication in your issue of June 5 from Mr. A. M. Robertson, of San Francisco, headed "A Wail from the Pacific Coast," has special interest for us because when, in July, 1895, we adopted the plan of having a fixed price for our publications another bookseller of the same city questioned its wisdom in a letter published by you August 17 of that year. We pointed out in our reply (August 31, 1895) that allowing for time and distance we were still benefiting the California bookseller, and Mr. Robertson's letter seems to show that our views were correct. What he asks is a price that will be held not only by the publisher himself, but by all booksellers, so that the retailer can feel that he will not be undersold, and at the same time that he is not "robbing his patrons" by asking more than the same book can be purchased for elsewhere.

Our contention was that so soon as the consumer found that our books could be bought as cheaply in San Francisco as in the East he would patronize the home market. Our two years' experience has justified this claim, and the almost universal support given us by the trade (there has been but one exception) is not only gratifying to ourselves but proves the wisdom of the plan, for it would not have had this support if it had not been profitable and based upon common-sense principles.

Allow us to add for the guidance of others who may be considering the question of "one price to all" that, notwithstanding some apparent loss in our mail remittances, and the great trouble of rearranging royalties and discounts, we are more than pleased with what was at first an experiment; the bookseller, the consumer, the jobber, even the few department stores with whom we deal have stood by us, and we firmly believe that any house that may adopt the system on a large scale will have the same success. Very respectfully,

P. BLAKISTON, SON & CO.

A SUGGESTION FOR MAINTAINING THE RETAIL PRICE.

June 9, 1897.

To the Editor of The Publishers' Weekly.

DEAR SIR: Talking with one of the prominent publishers a short time since in relation to what could or what could not be done to stop the selling of the new popular books by the department stores at discounts which left the regular dealer with little or no profit, the writer was met with the reply that the Supreme Court of the United States had declared "that any contract in restraint of competition is illegal and void, regardless of the question whether such agreement is reasonable or the reverse." That the above decision has been made I do not doubt, but, could not the publisher of a copyright book decline to sell to any house who would not agree to sell such book at not less than say twenty-five per cent. from the advertised retail price?

The Waterman Pen Co. obliges all dealers handling their pens to agree not to sell them at less than the advertised price, and in New York City, while the pens are kept in stock both by department stores and the booksellers, I have yet to learn of any cut in the retail price. It is also the same with Webster's International Dictionary. The retail price is $10, but the price at which it is sold is fixed by the publishers at $8.50, and dry-goods and department stores and booksellers all sell at the last-mentioned price. Now could not this be done by the publishers of the new popular books? Would it not be a help both to publisher, jobber, and the bookseller? I fail to see why if it can be done with Waterman pens and the Webster's International Dictionary it cannot be done with the popular new book. Yours truly,

BOOKSELLER.

WARNING.

THE BAKER & TAYLOR COMPANY caution the trade against delivering any books to parties presenting orders purporting to be from them, written upon their mailing tickets.

We are informed that books have been obtained in at least one instance in the above manner. THE BAKER & TAYLOR COMPANY.

OBITUARY NOTES.

EGBERT T. SEES, treasurer of the National Railway Publishing Company, at 24 Park Place, New York, died on the 13th inst. at his residence, 92 West Jersey Street, Elizabeth, N. J. Mr. Sees was born in Harrisburg, Pa., June 12, 1830. He went into the publishing business in Philadelphia at the beginning of the late war, and in 1872 was elected treasurer of the National Railway Publishing Company, which position he held at the time of his death. He transferred his office to the New York branch of the company in 1880.

ALFRED TRUMBLE, editor of The Collector, a bi-weekly periodical devoted to art criticism and antiquities, was found dead on the morning of the 16th inst. at his home, No. 454 West 24th Street, New York. His housekeeper suspected that something was wrong when Mr. Trumble did not come downstairs to breakfast, and found him dead in his bedroom. Heart disease was the cause of death. Mr. Trumble was apparently in good health on Tuesday, and spent the evening at home. He was fifty-three years old. In his youth Mr. Trumble studied art in Paris and London. On his return to this country he abandoned drawing and devoted himself to literature, his principal works dealing with criticisms of paintings and art matters. He published a "Memorial on George Inness," and frequently contributed to magazines on art topics. He had formerly been on the staff of the New York Herald, and later was assistant editor of Town Topics. He was well known as an art critic. There was a good deal of trouble a short time ago between the proprietor of The Collector, a publication owned by Walter R. Benjamin, of the Townsend Building, at Broadway and 25th Street, and Mr. Trumble, upon the latter issuing a periodical under the same name.

Coppinger, entitled "The Bible and its Transmission: an historical and bibliographical view of the Hebrew and Greek Texts and the Greek, Latin, and other versions of the Bible (both manuscript and printed,) prior to the Reformation." The work will be illustrated with 28 fac-similes.

GEORGE ROUTLEDGE & SONS have published a new series called "Immortals," which include a hundred of their best books. The bindings are half leather, in three colors, substantial and attractive, all with gilt top. They are made to retail at 75 cents, and they will deserve the attention of the trade as noteworthy examples of the new possibilities in bookmaking, combining literary and mechanical excellence with cheapness.

FLOOD & VINCENT, Meadville, Pa., announce among their Chautauqua text-books: "Imperial Germany," by Sidney Whitman; "Roman Life in Pliny's Time," from the French of Maurice Pellison, by Miss Maud Wilkinson; "The Social Spirit in America," by Prof. C. R. Henderson, of the University of Chicago; "A Short History of Medieval Europe," by Prof. Oliver J. Thatcher, of the University of Chicago; and "Roman and Medieval Art," by William H. Goodyear, of the Brooklyn Institute.

NO. 38 (June, 1897) of the Publications of the American Statistical Association will contain the address on Francis Amasa Walker delivered by Col. Carroll D. Wright at the quarterly meeting of the association, April 16, 1897. This number will also contain a carefully-prepared bibliography of General Walker's writings, with references to published reports of addresses, orations, etc. Copies may be had by written application to the secretary of the American Statistical Association, 491 Boylston Street, Boston.

THE "Knickerbockers" of G. P. Putnam's Sons on the 14th inst. defeated the nine from E. P. Dutton & Co.'s forces. There were nine innings, in which the "Knickerbockers" scored a total of 34 and the Dutton nine a total of 23. The "Knickerbockers" have an engagement on the 19th. After that date they will be ready to challenge the whole book trade to meet them on the diamond field. Challenges may be addressed to E. Bornkessel, captain of the "Knickerbockers," care of G. P. Putnam's Sons, 27 W. 23d Street, New York.

THE route of the trolley ride for which the entertainment committee of the Booksellers' League made arrangements has been radically changed. Instead of making an excursion to Pelhamville the ride will be from the Brooklyn Bridge to Jamaica, L. I., via Fulton Street, Greene and Gates Avenues to Ridgewood, thence via the Richmond Hill line to Richmond Hill and Jamaica, where luncheon will be taken at Pettit's Hotel. The special cars will start from Brooklyn, at the bridge entrance, June 26, at 2:15 P.M. sharp. It will be strictly a "stag party."

LEE & SHEPARD will shortly publish two new books by "Oliver Optic," which the author had completed before he died. The first—"At the Front"—is the fifth volume of The Blue and the Gray On Land Series. It tells of the Riverlawn Regiment in Tennessee and is full of adventure. The second one is called "Pacific Shores, or, adventures in eastern seas," and will form the twelfth and last volume of the All-Over-the-World Library. It describes Louis Belgrave's visit to Japan, Australia, New Zealand, and the Fiji Islands. Mr. Adams embodies his own personal observations made in his last tour around the world. They have in preparation a new edition of Warren E. Barton's "The District School as it Was," first published in 1833, edited with notes and illustrations by Clifton Johnson, author of "Country Clouds and Sunshine," etc.; a new volume of poems by Sam Walter Foss, of the Boston Globe, entitled "Dreams in Homespun"; a new novel by Miss Amanda M. Douglas, entitled "Her Place in the World"; a new novel by Miss Virginia F. Townsend, "Dorothy Dracut's To-Morrows," a new story by Colonel Samuel Adams Drake, entitled "On Plymouth Rock"; "Guarding the Frontier," by Everett T. Tomlinson, a new volume in the War of 1812 Series; "An Oregon Boyhood," by Rev. Louis Albert Banks; "The Happy Six," the concluding volume of the Silver Gates Series by Penn Shirley (Miss Sarah Clark, sister of "Sophie May"); and "Queer Janet," the first of a new series of stories by Grace Le Baron (Mrs. Upham).

F. MARION CRAWFORD'S NEW NOVEL. JUST READY

A ROSE OF YESTERDAY

By F. MARION CRAWFORD, author of "Casa Braccio." Cloth, 12mo, $1.50.

ANDREW LANG writes: "F. Marion Crawford is the 'most versatile and various' of modern novelists. He has great adaptability and subtleness of mind, and whether dealing with life in modern Rome, in the wilds of India, or in the fashionable quarter of New York, in the Black Forest, or in a lonely parish of rural England, he is equally facile and sure of his ground; a master of the narrative style, he throws a subtle charm over all he touches."

TALES OF PUGET SOUND

FROM THE LAND OF THE SNOW PEARLS

By ELLA HIGGINSON. Cloth, 12mo, $1.50.

By the Author of "Dukesborough Tales"

OLD TIMES IN MIDDLE GEORGIA

By R. MALCOLM JOHNSTON. Cloth, 12mo, $1.50.

Two volumes of short stories, each of which is a picture of the distinctive life of that section of the country from which the author writes. Mrs. Higginson's book is a second edition with added stories of "The Flower that Grew in the Sand," of which the Chicago Tribune wrote: "She has shown a breadth of treatment and knowledge of the everlasting human verities that equals much of the best work of France."

BY THE AUTHOR OF "A KENTUCKY CARDINAL." THIRD EDITION

THE CHOIR INVISIBLE

By JAMES LANE ALLEN, author of "Summer in Arcady," etc. Cloth, 12mo, $1.50.

"There are two chief reasons why Mr. Allen seems to me of the first of our novelists to-day. He is most exquisitely alive to the fine spirit of comedy. He has a prose style of wonderful beauty, conscientiousness, and simplicity."—BLISS CARMAN, in The Evening Transcript, Boston.

MRS. STEEL'S NEW NOVEL

IN THE TIDEWAY

By F. A. STEEL, author of "On the Face of the Waters." Cloth, 16mo, $1.25.

"A piece of evenly brilliant writing."—The Tribune, N. Y.

THE ESTABLISHMENT OF CHRISTIANITY IN EUROPE IN RELATION TO THE SOCIAL QUESTION. By HENRY S. NASH, Professor in the Episcopal Theological School, Cambridge. Cloth, 12mo, $1.50.

"Professor Nash's volume fulfils the promise of its title. It does more, indeed, for the author is something more and better than a mere epitomizer of other men's thoughts. . . . In luminous and epigrammatic statement, in compactness of thought, and in a thorough mastery of the whole subject, he ranks among the best writers on sociology who have appeared during the last twenty years, and we believe his book will come to be recognized as one of the most valuable and helpful treatises in the language."—The Tribune, New York.

THE MYTHS OF ISRAEL

THE ANCIENT BOOK OF GENESIS, WITH ANALYSIS AND EXPLANATION OF ITS COMPOSITION. By AMOS K. FISKE, author of "The Jewish Scriptures," etc. Cloth, 12mo, $1.50.

TRAVELS IN WEST AFRICA, CONGO FRANÇAIS, CORISCO AND CAMEROONS

By MARY H. KINGSLEY. Fifth thousand. Demy 8vo, $4.00.

"Altogether the book is unique, not only because it is more like the familiar conversation of a bright woman than a set narrative, but also because of the region described, the object of the travels, and the traveller herself."—The Nation, New York.

The Best Key to Educational Books.

THE

American Educational Catalogue

For 1897,

whose value to the trade is proved by the fact that it is now in its twenty-eighth year, and that upwards of claims to be the best practical aid to the dealer in or buyer of school-books.

With its alphabetical arrangement by authors, its separate class-index, carefully sub-classified to an extent not followed by any other catalogue, its completeness and accuracy, it is presented as the best finding-list, the most convenient order-list, and the most satisfactory class-catalogue for school use.

The catalogue is made entirely new each year, to omit books which have dropped out of use and to include all live books, and all new books (ready or to be ready for the Fall) are added in their proper alphabetical place.

The page giving the key to publishers will not be given in imprint editions unless specially ordered.

This Catalogue is specially planned to be of service for circulation by retailers among schools and private buyers. The imprint edition possesses not only temporary value, but will serve its purpose during the whole year. No imprint edition of less than 100 copies can be supplied. Orders for editions should be sent to us at once.

CASH TERMS:

There is no extra charge for printing name, business card, etc., on the imprint page; the last page is left blank at the disposal of the dealer, but any copy for that page, advertising special lines or general business, will be set up and printed thereon for $5.00, or for $1.00 if plate is sent.

Copy for imprint and shipping directions should accompany the order.
